

AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS

1. (Canceled)
2. (Currently amended) A mobile telephone device equipped with a broadcast receiving function, a received broadcast recording and reproducing function, and ~~an image~~ a mail receiving function, comprising:
  - ~~a means~~ unit for performing character recognition on ~~an image~~ data received by electronic mail;
  - ~~a means~~ unit for automatically extracting a numerical sequence out of character-recognized characters, decoding the extracted numerical sequence, and determining whether or not the numerical sequence is a valid timer video recording code; and
  - ~~a means~~ unit for receiving and recording broadcast based on a timer video recording code obtained by the character recognition.
3. (Currently amended) A mobile telephone device according to ~~claim 1~~, claim 2, wherein a video recording reservation is allowed to be confirmed by a user by displaying information required for the video recording reservation, the information being obtained by decoding the timer video recording code obtained by the character recognition.
4. (Original) A mobile telephone device according to claim 3, wherein, upon determining presence of a plurality of timer video recording codes, the video recording reservation is allowed to be confirmed by a user by sequentially displaying information required for the video recording reservation based on each timer video recording code.
5. (Canceled)